

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Nebraska Chapter of The Wildlife Society is now accepting abstracts for presentations and posters for the 2019 Annual Meeting in York, NE, February 21st – 22nd. The theme for the meeting is:

What We Do Matters:

Local Science and Why You Should Talk About What You Do

The meeting will include oral presentations, a student poster competition, business meetings, banquet, and auction. The Program Committee is now accepting abstracts for presentations pertaining to the theme and other topics in all areas of wildlife ecology, conservation, and science communication. Abstracts for the student poster competition are also being accepted at this time.

The submitted abstracts should include the corresponding author with contact information, the title, and abstract text. Abstracts should be no longer than 300 words. Please be sure to indicate whether your abstract is for a presentation, poster, or both. The deadline for submission of all abstracts is 28 January 2019. Please submit abstracts electronically to Miranda Reinson reinsonmc13@gmail.com. All successful and unsuccessful applicants will be notified by 1 February 2019.

More information regarding the meeting and registration will be posted at: <http://wildlife.org/nebraska/>
