CAC Activities

Alaska Chapter submits comments on Tongass DEIS – The Alaska Chapter of The Wildlife Society has submitted comment to the U.S. Department of Agriculture in response to their proposal to amend the current roadless rule in effect in Tongass National Forest in Alaska. Based on the statements and conclusions of the Draft Environmental Impact Statement released by the Department, the Alaska Chapter requests the Administration retain the 2001 roadless rule as it current stands. A decision on revisions to the rule are expected to be finalized by June. CAC Contacts: Matt Kirchoff, Sophie Gilbert, John Schoen

California North Coast Chapter submits second letter on wind energy project; project vetoed – The California North Coast Chapter of The Wildlife Society submitted a second public comment letter on December 16 on the Final Environmental Impact Report (FEIR) for the Humboldt Wing Energy Project. The Chapter expressed concerns over the operational impacts to wildlife, particularly to migratory birds and bats. The controversial project was vetoed by the Humboldt County Board of Supervisors on December 17. CAC Contact: Lizzi Meisman

Nevada Chapter submits letter on proposed U.S. Air Force expansion into National Wildlife Refuge – The Nevada Chapter of The Wildlife Society sent the following template letter to two Senators and four Representatives regarding the U.S. Air Force's (USAF) Legislative Environmental Impact Statement (LEIS) for expanding the Nevada Test and Training Range (NTTR) to adjoining public lands managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) and Bureau of Land Management (BLM). The Chapter expressed several concerns, with the largest concern "due to the significant departure from existing wildlife and land management priorities under USFWS' stewardship as a national wildlife refuge to a management priority as a military training area." CAC Contact: Jasmine Kleiber

Federal Updates

First Session of Congress Wraps with FY 2020 Funding Bill – In mid-December President Trump signed a funding package into law that provides funding for federal agencies until the end of Fiscal Year 2020 in September. There were across-the-board increases provided to conservation programs of importance to wildlife professionals, including the U.S. Geological Survey's Cooperative Research Units program ($5.6 million increase to $24 million), the State and Tribal Wildlife Grants program ($3 million increase to $67.5 million), and the National Wildlife Refuge System operations and maintenance account ($14.1 million increase to $502.4 million). Congress expressed concern in the funding package with the lack of transparency in Bureau of Land Management reorganization efforts, but did not bar the use of funds for relocating the agency's headquarters from Washington, DC to Grand Junction, CO.

With the end of FY 2020 funding discussions and the conclusion of the first session of the 116th Congress, TWS and our partners are now turning our attention to ensuring conservation programs are recognized in the FY 2021 funding discussions that will kick off in Congress over the next couple months. The conservation community is also still pushing towards full House consideration of the Recovering America's Wildlife Act \(H.R. 3742\), which passed the House Natural Resources Committee in mid-December. There is still time for your unit to send a request for cosponsorship of this legislation to your unit's House congressional delegation. Questions regarding appropriate points of contact in congressional offices can be sent to Caroline. You can check out an up-to-date list of House cosponsors to the bill here. Staff Contact: Caroline Murphy

TWS Welcomes new USFWS Director – In mid-December the U.S. Senate voted to confirm Aurelia Skipwith as the Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. TWS sent along a welcome letter to Skipwith at the news of her confirmation, which congratulates the soon to be Director and details several ongoing TWS-USFWS initiatives. When Skipwith begins her tenure early in the New Year, she will be the first permanent director of the Service since the start of the Trump Administration. This issue has not been unique to USFWS, with DOI agencies such as the National Park Service and the Bureau of Land Management also not seeing a permanent director since the start of the Trump Administration. Staff Contact: Caroline Murphy

BLM takes another step to the west – December 12 was the deadline for over 150 DC-based Bureau of Land Management employees to accept or decline orders from agency leadership to relocate to the western U.S. Shortly after the deadline, BLM Acting Director William Perry Pendley reported that over two thirds of those employees accepted their orders. This number is likely inflated though, as it has been understood that many BLM staff have accepted the order to relocate in an attempt to buy extra time in finding a new DC-based position. TWS has previously expressed concern with the relocation and is continuing to monitor its status. Staff Contact: Caroline Murphy
