

“The Wildlife Society’s mission is to represent and serve the professional community of scientists, managers, educators, technicians, planners, and others who work actively to study, manage, and conserve wildlife and its habitats worldwide”
 – TWS Mission Statement

Each year, the NM and AZ Chapters of The Wildlife Society partner with the joint chapter of the American Fisheries Society to host the Joint Annual Meeting (JAM) to benefit students and professionals in wildlife and conservation. This annual professional conference is a great opportunity for students, academic researchers, and wildlife professionals to come together to learn about research findings and management challenges across both New Mexico and Arizona. This is a great networking opportunity for students and professionals alike, bringing fresh ideas and collaborations to the table to the benefit of public wildlife.

The theme of this year’s conference will be “Renewable Energy and Wildlife: Planning, Mitigation, and Impact” where we have invited representatives from various state, federal, tribal, and private agencies and organizations to lead out plenary discussion. The goal of the plenary is to inform us on how each entity approaches the quickly expanding renewable energy development sector in the American Southwest. Additionally, there will be several workshops held at the meeting aimed at continued education and discussions surrounding landscape connectivity.

“As clean, renewable energy is being rapidly developed, it is imperative we understand the ramifications of these developments on wildlife, and what steps can be taken to ensure wildlife are a part of the conversation” – Travis Zaffarano, NM Chapter TWS President
